

REVIEWERS NEEDED:

The U.S. Department of Education is also recruiting 500 peer reviewers to read and score the grant applications for Mentoring Programs. All reviews are conducted through a web-based system and via conference call from the convenience of your home. Reviews will take place in July and August, and reviewers will be compensated for their time. This is a good opportunity to understand how the review process works, and to get ideas for strengthening your own program's future grant applications.
